Personal jurisdiction and venue over Tessera is proper in this District as 7. Tessera markets and licenses its patent portfolio within this jurisdiction and has conceded jurisdiction in concurrent litigation pending before Judge Wilken. Tessera's headquarters is also in this District.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

- On September 2, 1997, the United States Patent Office issued the '106 8. patent and is entitled "Method of Encapsulating Die and Chip Carrier." The '106 patent states on its face that Tessera is its assignee. Exhibit A, page 1.
- On July 30, 2008, Tessera informed Siliconware that Tessera intends to 9. move to add the '106 patent to the pending International Trade Commission Investigation entitled In the Matter of Certain Semiconductor Chips with Minimized Chip Package Size and Products Containing Same (IV), ITC Inv. No. 337-TA-64 ("the 649 Investigation"), alleging that some of Siliconware's packaging services infringe the '106 patent.
- The parties have an acrimonious history. At present, the parties are 10. involved in two separate patent cases: the 649 Investigation and a pending patent infringement case in United States District Court in the Northern District of California, Case. No. 05-4063 CW, before the Honorable Claudia Wilken. Each case has multiple Patents in Suit and concern products similar to those products which Tessera contends infringe the '106 patent.
- By reason of the foregoing, Siliconware has a reasonable apprehension that 11. Tessera will file an action against Siliconware for infringement of the '106 patent.
- Siliconware therefore seeks a Declaratory Judgment from this Court that 12. Siliconware's packaging services do not infringe Tessera's '106 patent.
- Siliconware also seeks a Declaratory Judgment from this Court that 13. Tessera's '106 patent is invalid as being anticipated and/or obvious under the prior art as the accused technology existed more than one year before the application for the '106 patent was filed.
